Activity

Skiing

Yesterday toured up Bacon rind on the spur just to the south of the Skillet, dropped west towards Ernie Miller ridge and skied two laps on the N end of the ridge. We travelled back to the car on the same route and skied out the skillet.

60-70cm HS observed on E aspect at the top of Bacon rind Ridge

No Cracking or Collapsing observed all day

Great supportable skiing, didn't fall through to facets anywhere pole probes felt uniform/generally right side up all day

1F zipper crust on the surface of anything solar
