Activity

Skiing

Burnt trees just south of Bacon Rind. Elevation approx. 7600, eastern face, 30-35 deg. slope. I stopped skiing near the top of the steep section. Warning my 3 partners not to descend and to traverse to their left (north). When I attempt to also exit to the left there was a very noticeable whomp and settling, a crack appeared across and up slope running 50+ ft. I continued exiting to the north with no further incidents.
