

Storm snow

Date

Mon, 03/21/2022 - 10:50

Activity

Snowboarding

I was up at divide yesterday (Sunday) to surf and rode the east divide shoulder , conditions were blower the storm came in hot ....1” per hr with a storm total yesterday when I took off at 12” in the basin any steep roll overs were sluffing naturally or when ridden over the storm slabs did not step down but we’re sliding on the new/old snow interface today I went back to divide and snowboarded and got up there early to beat the sun

it was hard to get a photo but pretty much the entire divide basin had slides on the storm snow what ran the entire length of the slopes...there were a few off divide pk proper

each slide stared at the ridge from wind/ snow loading

I took off at 1 today from the basin because everything was getting cooked and roller balls were starting and the snow quality was deteriorating

Region

Northern Gallatin

Location (from list)

Divide Peak